MONDAY EVEN'G, OCT., 31, 1867.

THE Sheriff of Fleming reports a better collection of the poll tax this year than for some time. There are only 860 delinquents against as high as 1,200 in previous years.

FORAKER seems to think the "rebel flag order" is the point at issue in the Ohiocampsign this year. He is trying to hide the bankrupt condition of his State with the flag business.

THE statement is made that the great State of Ohio is bankrupt to-day—hun- of one who had surmounted the stern barriers dreds of thousands of dollars worse off than nothing. And yet Foraker spends his time berating Cleveland and stirring bathing suits, and these are usually the ones up strife between the sections, abusing who swim and cannot afford to have their the South instead of discusing questions of vital importance to his own people.

The Republicans filling these places are "hold-overs" who were appointed just prior to the incoming of the present administration. Cleveland has done his duty pretty well in turning the of their ill fitting garments it is discoverable "rascals" out. WORKING GIRLS' FUN.

ENJOYING THEMSELVES AT NEW YORK CITY'S FREE BATHS.

How They Compare in Physique with Their More Fashionable Sisters-Bad Feet Almost Universal-A Little Shop Girl's Antics-A Quarrel.

In the period of excessive heat, which has killed off children by the dozen, melted the courage of the bravest, wilted the enthusiasm of the most energetic and driven men to blowing out their alleged brains from mere discomfort, the city's free baths have been the best patronized institutions in town,

It has lain in the line of my duty and pleasure to see several of them the past week and the sight has been one of considerable interest. For one thing I have learned that physically the working girl compares very favorably with her luckier sisters who kick up their aristocratic little heels in the surf that tumbles upon expensive and fashionable beaches. This is not apparent at first, because when the working girl comes stepping out of the dressing room ready for the bath her smooth outlines are not defined by the THE Ohio syndicate who lately bought trim snugness of Jersey cloth and silk hose the attendant and too big for her, or else a sbrunken and tattered for decency.

Some queer combinations one sees. One HON. KEENE F PRITCHARD, one of the red haired girl, whose bare ankles were waite frayed red flamel petticoat and an old silk basque. Another wore what had once beel bard for a tunic and her younger brother's trousers. The effect of this last was sturning, and the wearer of it paddled about in the cool salt water with the lofty expression of untoward circumstance by the might of their own unaided intellect. Some of the girls, however, can afford cheap but pretty movements hampered with clinging garments. Many of them swim uncommonly well and are fond of showing it off in the water. It's a pretty sight to see all the wet faces, rosy with the sharp kiss of salt water, those on the edge, and the maze of round limbs confused together. For, as I said, many of these girls, more than one would imagine, thinking of the half nourished lives most of them have led, are extremely well

ALL HAVE BAD FEET.

When the water melts down the crude lines that the upper classes do not monopolice feminine symmetry. But as a rule all these girls have bad feet, with the joints twisted out of place and the whole foot and its five toes the most misshapen and distorted thing you can well imagine. This is the result, I fancy, of the bad shoes they wear, too short and with ill fitting lining and wretched heels. clearly marked by as the style of shoe she has on and the straig these of her foot. In spite The statement was made in this paper of their crippled and malformed pedals these freedom and play endless practical jokes on her mouth and eyes rull of water. A pretty who was a daring and beautiful swimmer, found her chief amusement in going up and sitting on the rail and then letting herself tumble over backward into the water. Every Finally one of them sauntered up there and sat down, to rest, apparently. Just as the caught her by the foot and held her thus doubled backward over the rail. It was the greatest wonder she didn't snap her spine like a pipe stem. She didn't, but she squalled like nothing so much as a cat hung over a line and tied to the tail of another cat. The attendant came to the rescue, the pair of them tumbled into the water out of her reach and a feminine paval battle ensued. They pinched and scratched, tripped each other up, pulled hair and lasted the whole bath into such a foam that a policeman was summoned, who ordered them both out of the bath and threatened to arrest them. No one can even fully realize the meaning of "madder than a wet hen" who has not seen two such belligerent females emerge from a watery encounter. The honors of the day appeared to rest with dimple chin, who vowed she would come back next day and tumble backward into the bath 450 times. Such troubles are rare, I believe,-New York Cor. A KING DETHRONED.

Poor Old Malieton Finally Yields to the Teuton.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.-The steamer Zelandia, of Australia, brings full details of the surrender of Malicota, the native king of the Samoan islands, to the German offi cials. There is a so to hand by this steamer a letter written by the king to the American and British consuls on the islands a day or two before his surrender. Following is the full text of the letter: "I, Malicota, king of Samoa, write this letter to you as I am now in distress. When the Chief Tamasese and others first commenced their present troubles, it was my wish to punish them and put an end to the rebellion that they had raised. Acting, how-ever, on the advice and under the assurances of the British and American consuls, I refrained from doing so. I was repeatedly told by the representatives of the British and American governments that they would afford me and my government assistance and protection if I abstained from doing anything that might cause war among the Samoan people. Relying upon these promises, I did not put down the rebellion.

"Now I find that war has been made upon me by the emperor of Germany and Tamasese has been proclaimed king of Samoa. The German forces and adherents of Tam asses threaten to make war upon all the Samoan people who do not acknowledge Tamasese as king. I am innocent of any wrongful act, and I hereby protest against the action of Germany, but as the German nation is strong and I am weak, I yield to their power to prevent my people being slaughtered. I shall deliver myself up to the German forces to-morrow to prevent bloodshed and out of love to my people. I desire to remind you of the promises so repeatedly made by your governments and trust that you will so far redeem them as to cause the lives and liberties of my chiefs and my people to be respected. I wish to inform you that I fear the German government will compel me-as they are now forcing my people—to sign papers acknowledging Tamasese asking, and I if sign such papers it will only be ander compulsion and to avoid war being made on my people.

"MALIETOA, King of Samoa."
